

The Silver Miracle: 75 Ways Duct Tape Can Save Your Next Trip

BACKPACKER

THE MAGAZINE OF WILDERNESS TRAVEL

OCTOBER 2000

Reader Ratings Best Parks For Backpacking

Where To Find:

Guaranteed

Solitude

Abundant

Wildlife

Eye-Popping

Scenery

Perfect

Trails

THIS IS THE BEST PARK
IN THE U.S.

WHERE IS IT?
SEE P.38

■ FASTEST WAYS TO GET WARM P. 25

■ ARE YOU A BEAR MAGNET? P. 29

■ ULTRALIGHT SLEEPING BAG P. 107

■ HORSEPACKERS: FRIENDS OR FOES? P. 62

■ 7 ALL-SEASON TENTS P. 84

www.backpacker.com

$3.50US $3.95CAN

OCTOBER 2000, VOLUME 29, ISSUE 190, NUMBER 8

37

The Best Park
In America?
SEE PAGE 38

Features

37 | Hikers' Parks

Start planning next year's vacation! Here are the greatest backpacking parks in the United States, chosen for their scenery, solitude, wildlife, and other hiker-valued qualities. PLUS: 15 stellar trails to try.
BY ANDY DAPPEN

The Winners

38 | Best Overall Park

Sapphire-blue lakes, trails leading you to the realm of eagles, "crowds" consisting of you and a mountain goat—what you'd expect from "A Place So Close To heaven."
BY DAVID PETERSEN

46 | Best Scenery

48 | Best Wildlife

50 | Best Solitude

52 | Best Trails

54 | The Silver Wonder

An emergency kit doesn't amount to a hill of beans unless a few feet of duct tape are included. Here's everything you ever wanted to know about the sticky, miraculous fix-all.

62 | Whoa, Nellie!

Anyone who's hiked behind a horse knows the damage horses can do to both trails and your olfactory sensibility. But some horsepackers are trying to clean up their image, and the land. BY M. JOHN FAYHEE

76 | A Creature With Many Faces

New England is known for its cantankerous and moody weather, so it seems fitting that Vermont's 270-mile Long Trail would be just as unpredictable. BY CHARLIE WOOD

FIELD TESTS

84 | Convertible Tents

Roll back the top to catch the breeze, or batten down the hatches against snow or sleet. The latest breed of convertible shelters provides comfort in any season. BY DAN A. NELSON

92 | Vision Quest

Lightweight field binoculars can help you bag (visually, that is) a rare bird or scout a route across wild country. We tested five rugged, compact models.
BY PAUL CLEVELAND

